CHURCH ENDS A YEAR OF PROGRESS

Lutheran Church of Redeemer. Receipts Exceed All Previous Year and Congregation Shown to Be Pulsating With Life—Officers Elected—25th Anniversary This Month.

Closing a year that was marked by increased efficiency and the warmest enthusiasm, indicated by the gratifying reports of the best financial year in the history of the congregation, and opening another with aggressive plans and the most hopeful outlook for the future, the annual congregational meeting of the Evangelical Lutheran Church of the Redeemer was held Thursday night in the Sunday school rooms of the church, with the pastor, the Rev. William J. Nelson, in the chair.

A noteworthy feature of the meeting was the splendid spirit that prevailed during the discussion and adoption of the plans for the increasing of the efficiency of the congregation in all its varying activities.

The treasurer's report showed that a grand total of $12,087.10 had been received for all purposes which amount eclipses the records of all other years. The amount received for the ordinary expenses was $6,587.75 of which $6,574.05 was disbursed leaving a balance of $23.70.

The contributions to the Church Fund were $4,087.06 from which was paid in interest and on the principal, $3,063.25, leaving a balance in this treasury of $1,023.81.

The congregation raised and paid for regular and special benevolence, including the Synodical Apportionment, the China, Famine Relief, World Service and other local benevolences, $1,210.69. A special item of the Ladies' Aid Society for improvements in the parsonage amounted to $158.60.

A special item of finances that was noted during the meeting, though not included in the treasurer's report, was a sum of $2,000.00 of which $1,750.00 was raised by the Ladies' Aid Society, through the individual and joint activities of the various circles, and the balance of $250.00 by the Sewing Circle.

Preparations are going forth for the sixth annual dinner of the Ulster County Society to be held in the Baltimore, New York, on February 21, 1922. It is quite likely that former Governor Smith, who laid the corner stone for the Rondout creek bridge, will be the society's guest of honor.

A NEW ERA

More and more public utilities—institutions that render an essential service, are being examined and studied from a new standpoint.

This is because the war period has brought home the fact that public utilities have an important role to play in the economic welfare and development of the country.

For example: The stronger and better managed gas and electric companies are recognized as leading factors in the industrial upbuilding of the communities they serve. By their up-to-date methods, their uniform good service, reasonable rates and adequate reserves of capacity, etc., they are enabled to attract to the district industries requiring the most efficient power; to improve lighting conditions and in general, to assist in the modernization of towns and villages that they serve.

This Company is operating under new ownership. Its management is now the same as that of the Central Hudson Gas & Electric Company, which, with its affiliated companies, supplies gas and electric service to practically all the important communities in the Central Hudson valley.

We are offering you an opportunity to invest with us in this enterprise for which new capital is necessary. By your participation in the issue, you secure 7 per cent on your money and at the same time aid directly in the industrial upbuilding of your home town.

RECENTLY GIVEN SOLUTIONS OF GAS PROBLEMS

Company Must Reduce Rates or City May Flare.

Kingston, N. Y., Jan. 12, 1922.

To the Editor of The Freeman:

I have read with interest the editorial in your Wednesday's issue

regarding "Municipal Ownership."

Your quotation from Public Service

Commissioner reports, 1920 was of special interest as it admits there are exceptions to the rule of incompetent management of municipally owned electric lighting plants.

If you will take the trouble to look into the record of municipally owned water systems you will find many instances of incompetent management and public scandal but you will likewise find exceptions, and that the management and operation of the Kingston Water System has been one of the notable exceptions.

The people of Kingston have an abiding faith in the management and operation of its water system and have established what is, I believe, the best system of any city of its size in the state and far different from the operation of the system before the city took it over from private ownership. If my memory serves me right.

I agree with you that it is poor policy to shoot at the engineer when he is trying his best to make the grade; but in the engineer at the throne of the Kingston Gas and Electric Company's engine trying his best to make the grade?

Figures are often deceiving and complicated systems of bookkeeping often hide from the ordinary observer the actual condition of affairs. An alarming increase of complaints as to service, overcharging, mistakes in bills, apparent inferiority in quality of gas and what not, has been bearing on the situation and should be some indication of existing conditions and shows an increasing lack of confidence on the part of the consumer. Again, is the engineer trying his best to make the grade?

As I understand it only a small proportion of the bond issue about to be made is to be used for the betterment of the gas service and by far the larger proportion is to be used in extension of the electric system, in which, so far as I can ascertain, complaints have been comparatively few. Why the neglect or disregard of the conditions in gas service. Is it because profits in electric service are larger than in gas service for the company? Again, is the engineer trying his best to make the grade?

Because of the action of the common council at its closing session of last year, the city is, in my opinion, practically helpless so far as the gas and electric rates are concerned. It has lost all the advantages and money expended in the long fight waged. It has deserted the Taxpayers' Association which was expending its best energies in striving to protect the people and in return have received, what? An apparent saving to consumers of either nine and one-half or ten cents per month to each consumer, depending on how the company desires to figure; through a proposition presented by the company at the eleventh hour and fifty-ninth minute and urged to a passage without consideration, concededly to help the company sell its bonds. Again is the engineer trying his best to make the grade?

There are only two solutions of the gas and electric problems of the city, viz:

1. An immediate voluntary decrease in rates by the Kingston Gas and Electric Company, or

2. The purchasing by the city of the company's gas and electric systems either by agreement with the company as to price or by the power of an act, which should be gotten through the present session of the legislature, enabling it to condemn same for municipal ownership.

And in conclusion let me suggest that it would be absolutely absurd to suppose that a community which has,

for years conducted a water system in the manner this community has,

would still be incompetent to conduct its electric and gas systems and furnish to consumers electricity and gas at cost of production and distribution plus a small percentage to be used as a sinking fund for payment of interest and principal of purchasing bonds.

Yours Respectfully,

FRANCIS C. MERRITT,

Attorney, Kingston Taxpayers' Ass'n, 28 Furnace street.

HASBROUCK ENGINE CO.

ENTERTAINS ITS FRIENDS

The Hasbrouck Engine Co. of Conn. entertained their wives, friends and sweethearts at a grand ball and banquet at their rooms on Wednesday evening. Owing to the snow storm quite a few members and friends of Kingston were not able to attend but a good number from Connally braved the blizzard to dance and dine with their friends. Dancing was enjoyed before the banquet and after. The boys took their partners and matched in the large banquet hall, where a real feast was served. After all had dined some of the members exhibited some fancy dancing for the guests. Edward Scherer and also John H. Voght surprised everyone by tripping some very artistic steps. A solo was rendered by Mrs. John McNelis and was greatly enjoyed by all. All the old fashioned dances were indulged in as well as the fancier steps. All had a jolly time.

Second Art Lecture.

The second of the four art lectures being given by two of the professors of Vassar College in the interest of the Vassar Faculty Fund, at the home of Mrs. G. D. B. Hasbrouck, will occur tomorrow afternoon. The lecture which will be given by Prof. Chatterton on "The Impressionists" will begin promptly at 2:30 o'clock. Single tickets, or tickets for the three lectures will remain of the course can be had at the residence of Mrs. Hasbrouck tomorrow.

Taxpayers' Meeting Postponed. Owing to the blizzard Wednesday the Kingston Taxpayers' Association did not hold its annual meeting and elect officers. The meeting will be held later.

Reproduces Kelly's Picture.

The Missionary Mail, published by the Women's Board of Home and Foreign Missions of the Presbyterian Church, in its current issue carries on the first page a reproduction of Kelly's famous "Washington at Valley Forge" on the Sub-Treasury Building, Wall street, New York. Joseph Drake who has control of the picture, recently presented one to Bishop William F. Anderson of the Methodist Church, a former pastor of St. James' M. E. Church, Kingston, who wrote that it is a fine conception and effectively wrought out. I prize it highly.

Don't Spoil Your Hair
By Washing It

When you wash your hair, be careful what you use. Most soaps and prepared shampoos contain too much alkali, which is very injurious, as it dries the scalp and makes the hair brittle.

The best thing to use is Mulsified coconut oil shampoo, for this is pure and entirely greaseless. It's very cheap and beats anything else all to pieces. You can get Mulsified at any drug store, and a few ounces will last the whole family for months.

Simply moisten the hair with water and rub it in about a teaspoonful of Mulsified is all that is required. It makes an abundance of rich, creamy lather, cleanses thoroughly, and rinses out easily. The hair dries quickly and evenly, and is soft, fresh looking, bright, fluffy, wavy and easy to handle. Besides, it loosens and takes out every particle of dust, dirt and dandruff. Be sure your druggist gives you Mulsified—Advertisement.

Mrs. Rosa Kirby

Mrs. Rosa S. Kirby, who was recently elected by an overwhelming majority to the office of County Assessor in Campbell county, Wyoming. Hard-boiled taxpayers have found her fully capable of meeting every exigency, and the county, which is territorial size is as large as the state of Connecticut, feels proud of this executive. Mrs. Kirby was formerly an Iowa school teacher, having classes in Latin and English. She knows the assessment business from the ground up, having served as deputy assessor prior to her election to the higher office.

Beautiful Sea Forms.

An interesting chapter of natural history is that which deals with the minute crustaceans known as nauplii. The shells of these tiny objects viewed under a microscope reveal the most delicate and beautiful designs and about 5000 patterns have been found. The shells are so finely fashioned that they help rather than retard the power of the occupant to float. Among these is the barnacle, which when young attaches itself to floating seaweed, feathers and even match sticks, and which, as it grows older, makes itself a buoy to help it to remain on the surface of the water and later, fastens on to the rocks, the hulks of wooden vessels and on whales.

Emperor's First and Last Smoke.

Napoleon hated smoking and was only once persuaded to try a pipe. "The emperor could not manage to light it," relates Constant, his valet, "so at last he told me to do so. I obeyed and gave it to him. Scarcely had he drawn in a mouthful than the smoke, which he knew not how to expel, turned back into his palate, penetrated into his throat, and came out through his nose, nearly blinding him. As soon as he recovered breath he exclaimed, 'Take the abominable thing away!' For at least an hour afterward the emperor felt sick, and then and there determined never to adopt a habit which he declared was only fit to amuse sluggards."

The Japanese Schoolboy.

In Japanese schools the physical development of a child is given as much attention as his mental development. On warm days he strips to the waist and his teacher watches him closely as he works. If he breathes improperly, he is corrected; if he is round-shouldered or flat-chested, he is given special exercises; if he is too thin a special diet is recommended. As in the United States, every child must go to school when he is six years old. He receives a six years' course in morals, reading, arithmetic, gymnastics, and poetry.

Iridescent Artificial Pearls.

Artificial pearls were probably invented about 1650, A. D., by a Frenchman named Jannin. There are several ways of making them, the commonest of which is to use a globe of blown glass coated on the inside with so-called Oriental pearl essence. This is made from the scales of certain fishes, rubbed down in a mortar with fresh water and strained. This gives a beautiful iridescence. The globules are then filled with white wax, paraffin glue, isinglass or mucilage. The glass often contains hydrofluoric acid and oxide of tin.

Blending Liquids.

In general liquids will remain permanently blended if one is soluble in the other, as, for example, a blend of gasoline and lubricating oil. With emulsions the rule is that the emulsion will not be permanent unless a third liquid is present to coat the drops and prevent their reuniting. When one liquid is not soluble in the other and no emulsion is formed the liquids may stay mixed for a time if they are of nearly the same specific gravity. The greater the difference in specific gravity the quicker they will separate.

The Merciless Public.

"Why do you think motion pictures ought to be censored?" "For the reason," replied Miss Cayenne, "that the producers who insist that their own tastes are moral and intellectual should be protected from a heartless public that insists on improprieties."

Mysterious Case.

"What became of that land deal of Whiffles—that sight-unseen purchase of Florida real estate?" "Have no idea. But the other day I heard he was trying to trade a plover and an incubator for a boat and some fish food."—Retail Public Ledger, Philadelphia.

Miss Chrissie Anderson

Miss Chrissie Anderson, of Washington, D. C., has a hobby, namely, the collecting of state songs. She numbers in her collection songs from nearly every state in the Union. She has written the governor of each state requesting him to forward to her a copy of the state song and, in cases where the state is songless, has made suggestions and efforts to have some melody adopted.

Tracing British Names.

The word Scot, as applied to those living north of the Tweed, is said to have an interesting history. The word is the same as "Scythian" in etymology; the root of both is "scit." The Greeks had no "c" in their alphabet, and would change "c" into "th," so that the root became "skth;" by adding a phonetic vowel we get "skuthal" (Scythians) and "Scoth-al" (Scots). The Welsh disliked "s" at the beginning of a word and would change it to "ys," they would also change "c" or "k" into "g;" and "th" into "d." Therefore the Welsh root became "Ysgid" and "Skoth" would become "Ysgod." Now the Saxons would change the "g" back to "c" and the "d" to "t," and would cut off the Welsh "y," whence the word became "Scot." Before the Third century Scotland was called Caledonia or Albion; England, of course, is Albion.

Resilvering Mirror.

It is usually safest to send the mirror to a resilvering works. It may be repaired by making use of another mirror as follows: Clean the bare portions of glass by rubbing gently with fine cotton, taking care to remove any trace of dust and grit. With point of penknife cut upon back of other mirror around a portion of the silvering of required form but a little larger; upon it place a small drop of mercury. The mercury spreads immediately, penetrates the amalgam to where it was cut with the knife, and the required piece may be lifted and removed to place to be repaired. Then press lightly the renewed portion with cotton; it hardens almost immediately and the glass will present a uniform appearance.

Tolstoy Tribute to Dickens.

Maxim Gorky published some jottings from his notebook of talks with Leo Tolstoy toward the end of the old man's life, and among them there is a curious appreciation of Charles Dickens, according to the continental edition of the London Mail. Tolstoy said of him: "Dickens has expressed a remarkable thought. He says life was given to us to be valiantly defended to the last breath. . . . He was on the whole a sentimental and loveless writer of mediocre intelligence. But he knew better than anyone how to put a novel together. He certainly did it better than Balzac. Both writers have left a number of badly written books, and yet Balzac had genius." The talks cover a wide range of subjects.

Scottish Legend.

The ancient stone, where the Scottish St. George is supposed to have slain his dragon is still to be seen over the door of Linton church. The glen where the alleged slaying took place is about 200 yards from the main road, close to the Cheviot Hills and about four miles from Linton. According to tradition the "worm," or serpent, a monstrous creature, lay in the glen, and did havoc amongst the cattle, sheep, and other animals for miles around and many attempts were made by the knights of old to slay it, with disastrous results to themselves, until a certain William de Somerville came along and successfully accomplished the feat. For this act he was granted all the lands in the parish of Linton.

Gambetta's Eye Preserved.

Very few of the hundreds of spectators who have seen Gambetta's heart carried in procession through Paris know that another portion of his body is above ground. Long before his death one of his eyes was so badly damaged by a blow that it had to be removed, says the continental edition of the London Mail. The doctor who performed the operation caused the eye to be specially treated to preserve it. It was placed in a small glass phial, which the doctor gave to one of his pupils, now practicing as an oculist in Paris. Its owner has expressed the intention of giving the eye either to the Gambetta family or to the state.

Extra Sum.

An imaginative writer in a current magazine tries to speculate in regard to conditions on a planet lighted and heated by more than one sun. Imagined as very many stars are "double" and doubtless others occur in bunches, the notion of a planet enjoying the luxury of more than one sun is at least plausible. Presumably there are plenty of planets thus situated. Probably there are in the universe billions of inhabited planets, each one having its own conditions more or less

Hired to Sing for a King.

The most curious contract that ever an operatic star made was probably that of Farinelli, who, about the year 1784, was drawing an income of something like $25,000 per annum. This singer afterwards visited Spain, where the king, Philip V, was suffering from mental depression, from which nothing should prove stirring, from which nothing aroused him until the advent of Farinelli. The queen was so delighted to see her royal spouse once more interested in anything that she engaged Farinelli at a salary of $10,000 to remain in Madrid. This he did, singing the same four songs to the king every night for ten years.

Does Sometimes Seem That Way.

A Kansas editor declares that there are three requisites to wealth nowadays—the industry of the bee, the perversity of the ant and the instincts of the hog. And the greatest of the three, it seems to the bystander, is the instinct of the hog.—Des Moines Register.

Magdalen Hymn at Bryn Mawr.

The American adoption of a certain time-honored Oxford custom annually spans the Atlantic with a bond of fellowship. On May day, Magdalen students gather to sing the Hymnus Eccharistica, written in Latin by Dr. Thomas Smith, a fellow of St. Mary's Magdalen college, and set to music, in 1605, by Benjamin Rogers. Five hours later, 8,000 miles away, the seniors of Bryn Mawr college, Pennsylvania, in white dresses and academic caps and gowns, climb the tower stairs above Owl gate, and standing behind the cruciated parapet, face the east and repeat the beautiful hymn.

LITTLE TALKS ON THRIFT

by S. W. STRAUS, President American Society for Thrift.

The pitiful sight one often sees on city streets this winter where the aged or infirm are forced to beg for their daily food should prove stirring sermons to all of us on the need of thrift.

To those who are prospering

it often may seem a real hardship to give up some pleasure or form of diversion in order to save money for the future. But such sacrifices are blessings in disguise. Those who are lashed by the whip of hunger or suffer from insufficient shelter know the meaning of real hardship.

You may be young and strong and prosperous today, and happy in all the good things that life has to offer. But today is short. The years come hurrying by, bringing with them sickness, accident and old age. You are unfair to yourself—to the old man or the old woman you are going to see if you do not practice thrift now.

One of the greatest mistakes made by many is the consideration of salary or wages as profits.

A man's only personal profits are his savings.

The man or woman who is not saving money is in the same class economically as a business that is earning no profit, and a business which is not earning any money is headed straight for bankruptcy unless radical changes for the better can be made.

Too many people are drifting along from day to day without making adequate provision for the future, and herein lies one of the most urgent needs for a more general adoption of the principles of thrift.

Emotions.

Nothing Unusual About This. "I make up my mind about the matter first, but I always ask my husband's advice on it," said a woman at Marylande County court.—London Daily Mail.

An astronomer says that the term "fixed" as applied to stars, is a misnomer. Still, we know some stars that are mightily well fixed.—Boston Transcript.

For the first time since 1917 examinations of blood tests took place at Governor's Island recently. Failure to pass the examination meant retirement from the army. The photograph shows an officer being examined by Lieutenant Colonel Edward Rich, M. C., and Major H. L. Kraft. Captain Oscar Nettles, M. C., is taking notes. These three are the chief examiners who will pass on the 300 officers who are undergoing the test.

Tonight the feature picture at the Colonial Theatre will be "The Guilty Conscience," with Antonio Marino in the principal role. Saturday matinee and night will be "When Men Are Men," featuring William Duncan.

The Northern Lights.

The name "aurora borealis" was first used by O. Seesund, who, in 1621, observed one in France and wrote a description of it. The "aurora" is a phenomenon in its manifestations, the most displays being at intervals of 100 years, and less marked ones at intervals of ten or eleven years. It is asserted that the greater and lesser displays correspond with the increase and decrease of spots on the sun. This phenomenon is generally manifested in the following way: A dim light appears on the horizon shortly after twilight and gradually assumes the shape of an arch having a pale yellow color, with its concave side turned earthward. From this arch streams of light shoot forth, passing from yellow to green and then to brilliant violet. The name aurora borealis, while generally referring to the northern lights, also is applied to a similar phenomenon visible in the vicinity of the South pole.

A Penny Saved.

One of the many clever ways in which savings are effected by big automobile companies was illustrated by a story told the other day by a manufacturer of parts used in quantities in the making of a widely known car. He received instructions to pack all shipments in cases made of boards of a certain length and width and with screw holes a specified distance apart. He grumbled a good deal at this, but since the order came from his largest customer he said nothing and complied with instructions. However, when he next met an executive of the motor car company he asked him the reason for the change in packing. "Oh," was the reply, "there is no use in wasting good lumber and, now that you make the boards the right size, we just dip them in black paint and use them for the floors of the cars."—Wall Street Journal.

Experience.

Observation more than books, experience rather than persons, are the prime educators. Books aid as one has the wit to use them to advantage, persons most when seeming not to serve us. Experience converts us to ourselves when books fail us, and this offense against our knowledge and consent. And it remains questionable how far our attainments further or hinder Nature's intention, the art of education being still an uncompleted and incalculable matter that, with the experience of past times to aid us, not a few of the most striking characters have been formed, untrammeled by the schools, under the more direct and potent influences of life and things, operating under the pressure of necessity and learning accident.—A. Bronson Alcott.

Here is shown the first complete electric train devised from plans drawn by I. I. Makhomia, a Russian electrical engineer. Motive power is supplied by great electro-motors capable of 3,000 horsepower each. The run from Moscow to Petrograd, a distance of almost five hundred miles, is made without stopping to refuel the motors. Details concerning the construction of these powerful accumulators are kept secret. The Soviet Government, which sponsored the construction of the electric train, refusing to allow the information to be made public. Below is I. I. Makhomia, the inventor.

Living Room Important.

A living room of all rooms in the home is the most important, and one writer says: "Furnishing a living room is like starting out on a voyage of discovery." This room should be furnished with thought for the need and comfort of each individual member of the family. Give to the master of the household a comfortable fireside chair, a table beside that chair on which he can place a paper, magazine, book or any other things that he may wish there; give him his own reading lamp and a comfortable stool in front of his chair.

Love's Tragic Path.

When I was sixteen I met a handsome youth two years my senior. I cared for him and, apparently, he cared for me. At this age I was very sensitive and shed tears over every little thing, and once in a while over things he said. For my birthday I received a package which I knew was from him because of his handwriting. I ran to my room to open it, and when I did, what did I behold but an onion placed in the middle of a square box with a card saying "New crop." I did, but not from the effects of the onion, but of a broken heart. That was enough.—Exchange.

Strange Idea of Gratitude.

As a sort of manifestation of gratitude combined with self-sacrifice and self-abasement the Tamil Hindu when he recovers from a serious illness sometimes makes a vow to do something entailing discomfort and pain to himself. These vows take different forms, such as rolling over and over on a hard metal rod, lashing himself or being lashed on the back, or wearing a hair shirt, but walking over live coals is the means most commonly chosen by the devotees, this being often accompanied by other forms of self-torture.

Daddy's Evening Fairy Tale

BY MARY GRAHAM BONNER

WHAT DICKY DECIDED.

Dicky had had a most marvelous ride right in the engine room of the great train. He had ridden all the way down to the Junction, fully eight miles away. And he had come back in the engine room, too.

It was after that that he had decided he wanted to be the engineer on a train.

But not long after Dicky was taken for a trip in a hydroplane which went up in the air and along in the water, too.

It was after that trip that Dicky had decided he would like to take such trips all the time when he grew up.

Another time, later on, Dicky was invited to take a ride on a camel belonging to the circus. That was the most thrilling of all. He rode right in the parade, right from the circus grounds, along the side streets, to the main street, and all the length of the main street he rode.

Oh, how proud he was! The camel wore a particularly handsome shawl and on top of the shawl was a magnificent seat and upon that sat Dicky.

A man walked along by the camel and led him in dignified fashion, and the camel held his head straight down in front of him and looked neither to the right nor to the left, but chewed constantly as though to show that parades meant nothing in his life.

Oh, how proud Dicky was! He bowed to his friends down on the street. They sat along the curb and they sat in chairs and they stood, and they leaned out of windows. Dicky knew everyone in the town. They all knew him, too.

No one missed seeing him on top of the camel.

It was after that that Dicky decided he would go in a circus as he could ride in gorgeous parades with a hand leading the way, and crowds along the street looking on in admiration.

Another day Dicky went for a wonderful ride in an automobile. All over the neighboring country they went. They saw other little towns, and one quite big place, too.

But all these different thoughts puzzled him.

"I've decided on so many things," he said. "And none of them are just what I want to do when I grow up."

To be sure Dicky had quite a long time ahead of him in which to decide, but he seemed to feel he wanted to be sure a long time ahead so he could think of his future work.

But the days went by and Dicky could not make up his mind. Sometimes he had a new thrilling adventure, and that would make him wonder again whether he would ever be able to make up his mind for the future.

Dicky was still puzzling and thinking about all the things he might do when, one day, a small stray dog came along. He was limping and his eyes looked sad, very sad. He seemed to be suffering terribly.

"Poor little dog," Dicky said. "Come right here to me."

And as Dicky said so the dog started to limp toward him. Dicky picked the dog up very gently.

He saw that some other dog had evidently bitten his leg. It looked sore and as though it hurt so much. And the dog was trembling, for he was trying not to complain and while though the pain was hard, very hard to bear.

Dicky took the dog inside and bathed his wound. Then he put a little peroxide on it so as to prevent poisoning. And then he put soft, healing vaseline and bandaged the leg ever so tenderly and carefully.

And then Dicky thought of food for the dog and he gave him some delicious milk and later on a nice bone.

And oh, how grateful the dog was. He licked Dicky's hands and he wagged his tail, and his eyes said more to Dicky than all the thanks in the world.

The dog was a little white dog, and Dicky was allowed to keep him.

And whenever Dicky went anywhere, the dog was his companion. And always in the dog's eyes Dicky saw his thanks and his gratitude.

"I know now what I want to be," said Dicky. "I am sure, too. I want to be a dog doctor, and drive away pains and aches. Besides, think of the joy that it will be to see eyes of little dumb animals thanking me for what I have done. Angles and hydroplanes and circus parades would never be the same as wonderful, grateful dogs!"

"Come Right Here."

Besides, think of the joy that it will be to see eyes of little dumb animals thanking me for what I have done. MORE GOOD CANDIES

The following will be new to many and will be found to be good:

Carrot Caramels.—Take some carrots until tender, pass them through a sieve, then take one cupful of this pulp, add two cupfuls of sugar, one tablespoonful of butter, one-half cupful of corn sirup, one lemon and one-half the grated peel. Boil to a hard ball stage; add one teaspoonful of almond extract and one-half cupful of nuts. Pour into buttered pan and cut in squares when cool.

Burnt Almond Fudge.—Brown one cupful of almonds in the oven, using care that they do not burn. Brown one-half cupful of sugar in a granite pan, then add one cupful of hot milk, and when the sugar is well dissolved add one cupful of sugar and one tablespoonful of butter. Boil to the soft ball stage, flavor, add the chopped almonds, cool until nearly cold, then beat until creamy. Pour into buttered pans and mark off in squares.

Tutti-Frutti Caramels.—Take two cupfuls of light brown sugar, one-half cupful each of chopped dates and milk, one cupful of corn sirup, one tablespoonful of butter, one-half cupful each of chopped raisins and preserved pineapple, one-quarter cupful of chopped figs, one-quarter cupful of candied pineapple, one cupful of black walnut meats. Cook all together and boil to a hard ball stage, stirring only enough to keep the candy from sticking to the bottom of the saucepan. Remove from the heat, add a teaspoonful of vanilla and pour into a buttered pan. Mark off into squares when cold.

Sultana Caramels.—Take one cupful of light brown sugar, one-half cupful of corn sirup, one tablespoonful of butter, one teaspoonful of vanilla, one cupful of granulated sugar, one-half cupful each of milk and nut meats, and one cupful of Sultana raisins. Place the ingredients in a saucepan and boil to a firm ball stage. Remove from the fire, add flavoring and pour into a buttered pan. These are nice dipped in chocolate.

HURLEY.

Hurley, Jan. 12.—In addition to the tenth day of the month, as already advertised, the collector of taxes, Mr. McSpirt, will sit in the town hall of this village on the thirtieth day of the month, to receive taxes at one per cent.

The town board with its newly elected members, met last Saturday in this village to organize.

In order to settle the matter of the faulty title to the lots sold to Mr. Lockwood and Mr. Van Sickle some years ago by the town, at the time the present town hall was erected, an election will be held in the near future, whereby the sale of said lots will be submitted to the people of the town; with this approval, the lots will be sold again for a nominal sum to the parties concerned and then a perfectly clear title given.

With ice over ten inches thick, a good harvest crop is being gathered. George R. Van Sickle has returned from a long sojourn in California to spend a vacation at home here.

On Monday evening, January 9, there was held a meeting in the Hurley Church for the purpose of organizing the Hurley Division of the Allied Citizens of America. Mrs. Brewer of the Department of Organization of the Anti-Saloon League, was present and gave an informational talk upon the object, work and method of the Allied Citizens.

The following officers were elected of the Hurley Division: President, Charles A. Snyder; vice-president, George P. Dumond; secretary, Mrs. Benjamin T. Dunn; treasurer, T. D. Houghtaling; chairman of advisory committee, L. H. French; chairman of organization committee, L. H. French; chairman of publicity committee, Mrs. J. L. Ostrander; chairman of junior department, Mrs. L. H. French.

Mine Accident Rates.

The accident rates in coal mines of England, France, Belgium, Germany, Austria and Japan are much lower than in America, because all the miners in one mine speak the same language.

ON-A-JOB, OFF-A-JOB JIM!

Being a Story
Of how Jim got on a job and why he got off it again.

Jim turned his eyes over. No longer did it read, "Hansen Sharp-shooted," but "Hansen taught to skate." To tell the truth, he had no business the first day, although he was on the pond from morning to night. Rather than be idle, he spent his time showing how to make various figures on the ice, and soon had a crowd around him wherever he went.

"I'm teaching skating anyway, whether I get a cent for it or not," he meditated. "As for my fat lady who promised to come, she was all bluff. When taken up on her proposal to pay, she slumped."

He was very much surprised the next morning to see her approaching the pond, skates under her arm. "Good morning," she began blithely. "Are you ready to teach me this morning?"

"Certainly. I looked for you yesterday."

"Let me get my skates on quick. I'll explain what kept me away when I got out on the pond."

She seemed in feverish haste. Jim helped her, fastening the straps and leading her across the pond. Then, out of breath, she stopped, and gave her explanation. "So many people called yesterday morning, gas man and the like, that I didn't get a chance to get out. In the afternoon, I had to go to my club, and I began to tell the members about you. Will you believe it, fully a dozen women, all as fat as I, decided on the spot to patronize you this morning. They are coming in a body, and will expect you to give each and every one of them individual lessons. That's why I came in advance, to get my lesson in first."

Jim did not relish the prospect. One fat woman to be led back and forth, seemed enough of a task without having a dozen others. He was on the point of suggesting that they go away to another location, when he espied the group of women trailing down the hill towards him. There was no hope.

They came. They seized him, and insisted upon being taught. With all their weight, and it averaged two hundred pounds each, they leaned upon him. When they skidded, they squealed and clung more determinedly upon him until he was exhausted. After an interminable time, they grew tired too, and someone made a motion to disband. Jim speedily seconded it, and watched their departure with heartfelt joy. But his thankfulness was short-lived. He glanced around, to see his first pupil near by.

"I didn't have half a lesson this morning," she pouted. "So I decided to stay a while longer. Please take me now."

Jim groaned. He thought at first of refusing, but since it was his last day of teaching, he determined to be a good sport and give the woman her money's worth. He took her by the arm and skated out with her to the centre of the pond. Then something happened. Jim saw a million stars dancing over his head. He was flat on his back, and a certain heavy burden was weighing upon his stomach. Opening his eyes, he saw that it was 225 pounds of wiggling humanity. Jim would have yelled to her, to make the agony short, but his breath had been knocked out of him and he lay speechless, helpless, dazed.

Finally she managed to pull herself up, and offered to assist him. As she leaned over, she lost her balance and toppled over once more. "Oh what's the use," murmured Jim. "In a half hour or so, I'll be feeling fit again. If you wait till then, I'll lead you to the shore, but not till then."

Two minutes later, he was helping her up the bank, and there was no hesitation about her being through for the day.

THE
OFFICE CAT

By Janine

Silk stockings are like money.
 When they are gone they are gone.
 Isn't that so, girls?

The close up may be all right in the movies, but it is rather distressing when applied to the factories.

Sad! Sad!

Here lies the body of old Jim Moore.
 He drank home brew that had a kick.
 The brew he drank was quite impure.
 It blew him up, a darn mean trick.

Born Superintendent.

"And your son?"
 "Was born to be a superintendent."
 "Heh?"
 "He never gets tired of watching other people work."

Now that the United States has machineless, smokeless, noiseless gunpowder, this war thing ought to quiet down a little.

I cannot sing
 The latest thing.
 Perhaps my voice lacks tone
 To get along
 With modern song
 You need a megaphone.

Thirteen persons were paroled from a prison by the governor of Indiana. That's an unlucky number for those who failed to get paroles.

If there were no optimists there wouldn't be any pessimists.

Outdoor sports look good to most girls—especially if they are handsome.

The automobile fad of racing trains to crossings is gradually dying out as also are the fellows who do the driving.

METTACHONTS.

Mettachonts, Jan. 12.—Our church services, which since the burning of the church have been held in our school house, are largely attended each Sunday and also the evening meetings, which were held every evening last week, except Friday, and will be held Tuesday, Wednesday, Thursday and Friday evenings of this week.
 All are invited to attend and listen to the very interesting and helpful sermons our pastor, the Rev. L. A.
 Braam, delivers. The Rev. Mr. Paxton of Kerhonkson, was also with us on Tuesday evening of this week.

Mr. and Mrs. Alton Dinky have been both ill and under Dr. Fuller's care. Mrs. Dinky's mother, Mrs.
 Waters of Bardsdale, came Saturday evening and is spending a few days with them and caring for them.

Miss Edna Markle and Miss Ray Markle were very pleasantly entertained for Friday night supper by Mr. and Mrs. Simon Osterhout.

Miss Laura Gonsoline of Kerhonkson, has returned home, after spending a week with her sister, Mrs.
 Spencer Traver, in this place. She has been sick and under Dr. Fuller's care.

Miss Beatrice Rider has returned to school at Kingston after visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Jacob Rider.

Miss Mildred Freer has returned to her school duties at Liberty, after

VARIETY LETTER CLUB

FOUNDED AT HIGH SCHOOL
Boy Winners of "K" and Four Others

The Kingston High School Boys' Variety Letter Club has been formed. In a meeting of the Variety lettermen held Thursday at the close of school the following officers were elected: Robert Case, president; Ross Sheldon Vogt, vice president; Donald Mac Fadden, secretary and Vernon Bechtler, treasurer.

The members are boy students who have earned Variety letters in football, baseball, basketball, track and tennis. It is quite probable that Variety Debating will be included when the constitution is framed.

The purpose of this club is to further and promote school spirit in connection with athletic competition for the letter "K," awarded after the fulfillment of the necessary qualifications on any athletic team. This organization will also determine that the school's awarded emblem of honor is not made common and that the standard of said emblem or letter "K" is not lowered.

When a letter man goes away to college he will endeavor to influence the donors of athletic scholarships to give a certain number to deserving athletes in K. H. S. The club will also "run down" the athletes who are lackadaisically pursuing their studies and who are not keeping their health in its proper condition.

A club emblem in the form of a small pin with a "K" on it will probably be adopted.

Mr. Mac Intyre moved that Arthur Flemming be made an honorary member. This motion was unanimously adopted.

A constitution will be framed by a committee picked by President Case. The committee is composed of Blair Muller, Tom Rowland and Arthur Flemming.

The faculty advisors are Mr. Mac Intyre, chairman; Mr. Herman and Mr. Woodard.

COTTICKILL

Cottickill, Jan. 12.—The Christmas entertainment and festivities of the Cottickill M. E. Church were held in the Sunday school room on Tuesday evening, December 27. A goodly number were present. Opening with a brief address by the superintendent, Robert Stall, and a community sing, the superintendent, assisted by several officers and teachers of the school, proceeded to present the junior classes with appropriate presents for the occasion. Then a presentation address by Mr. Locke, after which the pastor, the Rev. G. W. Weber, was presented by Mr. Locke for the congregation a purse of money, made possible through the efforts of two young ladies, Miss Nora DuBois assisted by Miss Verna Pine, as a token of respect and appreciation to the pastor who had just closed a special series of meetings of three weeks' duration in the church, and of which good had resulted. Then the pianist, Miss Tressa Nichols, also received from Mr. Locke for the congregation a purse containing a goodly sum of money as a reward for her services as pianist. The pastor made an address and thanked each and all for their kind remembrance and wished all a Merry Christmas as did Miss Nichols for her remembrance of the holiday gift. After which ice cream, cake and coffee was furnished in abundance to all present by the school, compliments of the season exchanged, a social visit enjoyed and feeling they had fully enjoyed a Christmas evening they returned to their several homes.

We were sorry to hear of the sudden death of Master Harold Nichols of Broadhead on Saturday, December 31.

James Kelder is having a new poultry house erected. James Freer of High Falls is doing the carpenter work and expects to complete same this week.

WHISKY WINS, BEER LOSES IN BALLOT OF PHYSICIANS

Wine Shakes Malt Drink Ban—N. Y. Vote Turns Scale.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.
Chicago, Jan. 12.—Physicians of thirty-three states and the District of Columbia, replying to questionnaires sent out by the Journal of the American Medical Association, divided almost equally on the question of whether whisky is a necessary therapeutic agent in the practice of medicine.

The vote was in favor of whisky but by less than a 12 to 11 ratio, while beer was declared unnecessary by approximately a 3 to 1 majority and wine was opposed by about a 2 to 1 ratio. Restrictions in prescribing whisky were favored by a ratio of approximately 13 to 1. Figures for fourteen states and the district of Columbia were made public last night, returns from nineteen other states previously having been announced.

The figures showed that out of 10,801 questionnaires returned by physicians in Alabama, Arkansas, California, Florida, Kentucky, Louisiana, Maryland, Minnesota, Missouri, Nevada, New Hampshire, New Mexico, New York, Wisconsin and the District of Columbia 5,577 declared whisky a necessary therapeutic agent and 4,641 stated that they found it of no value.

New York physicians were practically 2 to 1 in favor of whisky, and there figures with those of Louisiana, Maryland, Missouri, New Hampshire and the District of Columbia, resulted in the majority favoring whisky.

More than 2,000 physicians in the foregoing states reported they could cite instances in their own practice where unnecessary suffering had resulted from enforcement of the prohibition law, while 7,722 stated that no such cases had occurred in their communities.

The ballots of several of the states await final tabulation.

In the St. James Church on Sunday night, Dr. Baragwanath will present another dramatic book—"The Scarlet Letter." The feature of the service will be music by Herman LaFour.

Where Earth's "Crust" Is Weak.

There are few other places on earth where there has been such terrific folding and cracking of the earth's rocky armor-plating as in western South America. There a range of mountains whose peaks frequently top 20,000 feet in height, lies close to an ocean which sinks to profound depths within a short distance from the shore. Obviously, the earth's crust, if "crust" is not an outworn term in this connection, is weak and unstable along the Pacific coast of the southern continent, and the frequency of earthquakes there is easy to understand. The explanation is not so clear in all earthquake regions.

LOCAL DEATH RECORD.

Recent Deaths and Funerals of Persons in This Vicinity.

The remains of Mrs. Hannah Heroy were brought to Ellenville Thursday for interment in the family plot in Fantinekill Cemetery. Mrs. Heroy, who was past 80 years died at the home of her son in Brooklyn. The Rev. Newman Heroy of Wawarsing is a son of the deceased.

Charles F. Snyder, one of the best known residents of High Woods, died at his home Wednesday after a lingering illness in the 68th year of his age. He leaves a wife, two daughters and two sons to mourn his passing. Mr. Snyder was an active member of the High Woods Church and for a long time superintendent of the Sunday school. He was much respected and esteemed by all who knew him. The funeral will be held in the High Woods Church, Saturday afternoon at 1 o'clock. The Rev. George W. Gulick will officiate.

Esopus, Jan. 8.—The funeral services of Charles Atkins were held at his late home on Wednesday afternoon, January 11. On account of the storm many neighbors and friends were unable to attend. The Rev. E. A. Evans, pastor of Ascension Episcopal Church, West Park, officiated. The Masonic burial service was read at the house by the Rev. George E. Wright, D. D. The deceased had been a member of the Masonic Order for fifty-two years. He was born in Esopus and had resided there all his life, a period of nearly eighty years. His parents, Clark Atkins and Hannah Terpening Atkins, were also residents of Esopus. Their family consisted of eight daughters and two sons. The only surviving member of this large family is Mrs. Milton Tire, who was at the bedside of her brother when he died. Mr. Atkins is also survived by his wife, whose maiden name was Miss Eliza Johnson and one son, Robert of New York city. Another son died a number of years ago. The deceased had been in poor health for some time but was able to go about until quite recently. He was a good citizen and a kind neighbor and he will be missed by his associates and friends in this village and elsewhere.

The funeral of Charles A. MacKillop, husband of Lillian A. MacKillop, (nee Kriete) was held Wednesday afternoon, January 11, at 2 o'clock at the Campbell Funeral Church, Broadway at 66th street, New York city, the interment being in the Kriete mausoleum in the Lutheran Cemetery on Long Island. Mr. MacKillop who was a nephew of former Supervisor Charles A. Schermerhorn of this city, was a resident of Stamford, Delaware county, where he owned and conducted the Mountain View House and another large summer hotel opposite for a number of years, and also conducted winter resort along the Florida coast. Mr. MacKillop died suddenly at Melbourne, Florida, January 5th while with Mrs. MacKillop's wife on their way north. His mother, Mrs. Alice J. MacKillop and her brother Nelson Schermerhorn of this city, were on an automobile trip south when her son died, and in order to inform his sister and brother of the death, Charles A. Schermerhorn of this city got in touch with the Associated Press and requested that the newspapers in the south taking their service endeavor to locate his sister, the mother of deceased and thus notify her of the death of her son. At Raleigh, N. C., a hotel clerk noticed the name of Mrs. MacKillop on the hotel register and having seen an item about the death of Charles A. MacKillop called her attention to the item. She was shocked on learning the news and started at once back to New York. On Tuesday she met her son's widow who had come to New York also, and had gone to a sister's home, a Mrs. Charles Beckman at 1865 Grand Concourse, The Bronx, and had made arrangements for the funeral which was held on Wednesday as stated above.

Mercerized Goods.

Mercerized cotton is obtained by subjecting a cotton yarn or cloth under tension to a bath of strong caustic soda. The fiber gains in strength and loses its twist, becoming highly lustrous. It takes the dye more readily than ordinary cotton, and the colors produced are better and more permanent. The process of mercerization increases the cost of manufacture, but produces a beautiful, lustrous and more durable fabric, which is often used as a substitute for linen or silk.

Time to "Get Up."

An author who has helped to make a portion of New England famous presided at a banquet in a suburban town some nights ago. He had stringently enjoined the principal guest of the evening, and in conclusion told this story: "An old farmer drove into town one day and, going into a feed store, bought half a peck of oats. Stabling his horse by the side of the road, he gave him a royal lunch. When it was eaten the farmer hitched up, got into the buggy, took up the lines and addressed the nag, 'Now that you've been fed, git up.' The teamster turned and looked at the guest for a moment, and sat down."

Never Go Back.

After you have started something good keep it going. It's far easier to keep up momentum than it is to gain it. See just there is where so many fail. You may even have to slow up at times. Slow up when the signal tells you to, but keep moving. The fact that you are moving is the chance to start quickly when the sign says "go on." The wise man never lets his hold go.

About Venetian Glass.

Across the lagoon from Venice is Murano, the little island birthplace of Venetian glass. Like a great many objects of art its manufacture commenced in the Middle Ages and developed its full glory during the Renaissance. In 1291 certain Italian glass makers took out a register of nobility, or "libro d'oro," and formed a guild which very carefully guarded the secret process of manufacturing Venetian glass. About the fifteenth century colored Venetian glass won fame, and in the next century lace patterns and mirrors were created. Plain glass was also enameled and gilded when made into bric-a-brac. Later variegated or marbled glasses were produced.

The baptism of Virginia children was considered as necessary as vaccination is today. Any person failing to have a youngster baptized by a lawful minister was separated from the ponds of his tobacco crop, half going to the parish and half to the informer. The only lawful walking on Sunday was to and from church, and those failing to attend divine services and properly behaving themselves during the preaching were haled before the county court and fined 50 pounds of tobacco.

Never Go Back.

After you have started something good keep it going. It's far easier to keep up momentum than it is to gain it. See just there is where so many fail. You may even have to slow up at times. Slow up when the signal tells you to, but keep moving. The fact that you are moving is the chance to start quickly when the sign says "go on." The wise man never lets his hold go.

Keep a Scrapbook.

The habit of reading with a pair of scissors close at hand is an invaluable one to the busy housewife. So often there are recipes, household hints and other bits of information that would prove useful, but we have not account of what or where they are. In every kitchen there should be a scrapbook for such items as these and the more methodically they are arranged the more useful they will be.

Fidelity of a Telegrapher.

One striking example of the early spirit of endurance under great stress of which the telegrapher of the old school was capable was given by John Cunningham, then a young man in his thirties, at the time of the Custer massacre, says an exchange. He was operator and newspaper correspondent at Bismarck, which was the nearest telegraph office to the scene of Custer's last fight, 500 miles west. Attending his regular duties, and gathering here and there from incoming wires and plains stragglers the thrilling story of Custer to send to the anxiously waiting world, he worked 40 hours without rest, and for several days and nights he only caught a few winks of sleep, yet all the newspaper-reading world was eagerly grasping for the thousands of words of story he was gathering. They never knew how one man was working to satisfy them.

Of Ancient Origin.

The Romans were wont to throw a square piece of cloth over their shoulders, or to cover them when in bed, and they called this "pallium." The name word has come down to us in our modern "pall," the covering thrown over a coffin. Quite different was the "pallia," a long, sweeping cloak worn by princes and women of honest fame. The pallium was worn by slaves, freedmen, soldiers and philosophers. The custom of appointing men of mark to act as pall bearers comes down to us from Roman times. Pall Mall, the London street, derives its origin from quite a different source. This was the name of a game in which a palle or iron ball was struck through an iron ring with a mallet. Londoners pronounce the name Pall Mall almost verging on pelmel.

Doctor Johnson's Humanity.

Two copies of a rare pamphlet with an introduction by Doctor Johnson, which shows that the great man was always awake to the calls of humanity, as Boswell put it, have come into the market, observes the Christian Science Monitor. The pamphlet bears the title "The Prisoners of War," and was printed in 1790. Charles Wesley had visited the camp of prisoners of war at Knowle, near Bristol, and had been horrified at their ragged and miserable condition, and as a result a committee for their relief was formed. One of the pamphlets with Doctor Johnson's noble and humane introduction is a presentation copy to Laurence Sterne, and the other to Sir Thomas Robinson, who was at one time leader of the house of commons.

Civilization and Religion.

If history teaches us anything, it teaches us that hitherto civilized society has rested on religion. It was religious zeal and religious conscience that led to the founding of the New England colonies two centuries and a half ago. Religion and conscience have been a constantly active force in the American Commonwealth ever since. And the more democratic republics become, the more the masses grow conscious of their power, the more do they need to live not only by patriotism, but by reverence and self-control, and the more essential to their well being are those sources from which reverence and self-control flow.—James Bryce.

Value of a Name.

In the days of the French empire there was an officer who had done such meritorious service in subordinate ranks that his superior recommended him for promotion to Napoleon. The young officer labored under the misfortune of having a very unattractive name. His name had made an absurd patronymic even more so by adding at his baptism a ridiculous cognomen. When Napoleon heard this name pronounced he straightway refused to grant the promotion on the ground that he did not believe that any one afflicted with such a name could become great or hold a high position with dignity.

Famous Elephant.

Jumbo, made famous by P. T. Barnum, was an African elephant 11 feet 6 inches in height and 6 tons in weight. He was captured when young and at three years of age was transferred from the Jardin de Plantes in Paris to the Zoological gardens in London. Barnum purchased him for $10,000 in 1862 and brought him to America, where for three years he was the chief circus attraction. He was killed while crossing a railroad track in Canada. The skin is mounted and stands in the Barnum museum at Yale college; the skeleton is at the American Museum of Natural History.

The baptism of Virginia children was considered as necessary as vaccination is today. Any person failing to have a youngster baptized by a lawful minister was separated from the ponds of his tobacco crop, half going to the parish and half to the informer. The only lawful walking on Sunday was to and from church, and those failing to attend divine services and properly behaving themselves during the preaching were haled before the county court and fined 50 pounds of tobacco.

Never Go Back.

After you have started something good keep it going. It's far easier to keep up momentum than it is to gain it. See just there is where so many fail. You may even have to slow up at times. Slow up when the signal tells you to, but keep moving. The fact that you are moving is the chance to start quickly when the sign says "go on." The wise man never lets his hold go.

Keep a Scrapbook.

The habit of reading with a pair of scissors close at hand is an invaluable one to the busy housewife. So often there are recipes, household hints and other bits of information that would prove useful, but we have not account of what or where they are. In every kitchen there should be a scrapbook for such items as these and the more methodically they are arranged the more useful they will be.

Silvering-Startup.

Old Dispatch Boxes in Use.
 Curious and dispatch boxes are used for state documents passing between ministers of the crown, says the London Morning Post. These are seldom sent out of London. Some of the boxes still in active use date back to the reign of George the Third, and there are others which conveyed Palpatin's and Wellington's state papers. There are three different sizes of these remarkable boxes; the small cylindrical box, generally used for transmitting a joint communication to the cabinet; the larger box, which regularly passes from one department to another in the safe keeping of a trusted official; and then the more roomy box, familiar to those who know the house of parliament, where it is to be seen on the table before a minister who is introducing a bill or defending an estimate.

The Quindaro Ruins.
 The old stone walls and ruins at Quindaro are all that remains of a struggle of New England emigrants to found there a "future great metropolis." Kansas City and Leavenworth were either neutral or were dominated by southern sympathizers. The New Englanders wanted a "port of entry" of their own. So the town of Quindaro was built up rapidly with a large hotel, great warehouses and a steamboat landing. During the Civil war, however, the men all went to fight. When they returned the Union Pacific was building west through the Kaw valley, and a little later the Hannibal bridge was constructed, forever making Kansas City the "port of entry." Quindaro was abandoned and its hotel and warehouses went to decay.

Early America.
 I protest to you, by the faith of an honest man, the more I range the country the more I adore it. I have seen the best countries in Europe; I protest to you, put them all together, this country will be equivalent unto them. If it be inhabited with good people, it will be the more useful they will be.

Right Worshipful Joseph Drake acted as grand marshal at the public installation of the officers of Jamaica Lodge, No. 546, F. & A. M., at Jamaica, Long Island, Wednesday evening. Frank D. Thomson, owner of the Fischer restaurant in New York, and a warm personal friend of Mr. Drake, was installed as master of the lodge. At the conclusion refreshments were served and dancing took place. Over 500 persons were present, notwithstanding the storm. Mr. and Mrs. Thomson for a number of years have spent their summers in Stamford, Delaware county.

The regular stated meeting of Clinton Chapter, No. 445, Order of the Eastern Star, will be held at Masonic Hall, Wall street, this evening at 7:45 o'clock, when the recently elected and appointed officers will be installed. The meeting also will be noteworthy by the installation of Mrs. Alice Evans Norwood as district deputy grand matron of the Ulster-Greene county district. Mrs. Norwood having been too ill to be installed at the time of the meeting of the Grand Chapter in New York city last October. A social hour will follow the installation and refreshments will be served.

MISSING WITNESS FOUND.

Mrs. Campbell, sought Here, Located in Middletown.

Mrs. Elmore Campbell, the missing witness who has been sought for a week by Coroner John A. Card of Poughkeepsie to testify in the inquest on the death of William Sullivan, a Poughkeepsie school janitor, was picked up Thursday in Middletown, and will be taken to Poughkeepsie. She had left Poughkeepsie and came to Kingston, but when the local police sought her it was found she had left the city.

Coroner Card heard she had left Poughkeepsie with a man named Knapp, who at one time worked in the Middletown State Hospital. The coroner learned Knapp had applied for his old job at the hospital and notified the Middletown police who picked up Mrs. Campbell.

Her daughter, Nellie Campbell, was with Matthew Davis, who the Poughkeepsie police suspect is guilty of the janitor's death, and Davis's alibi was corroborated by Nellie. The Campbells, mother and daughter, are said to be former residents of Kingston.
